Rebecca Cadd re-joins Avolites to spearhead UK's Titan training programme

Avolites Ltd, London UK – is delighted to welcome back an Avolites original employee - Rebecca Cadd - as one of its Titan trainers and training co-ordinator for the UK.

Rebecca initially worked for Avolites some years ago, and has since worked for other lighting console brands in the UK. Now she's BACK ... bringing a wealth of training and knowledge in perfect time to support Avo's continued global growth.

Avolites' MD Paul Wong said, "Rebecca's extensive relationships with UK users and companies, as well as her knowledge of Avolites, makes her ideal to ensure that Avolites can satisfy the increasing demand for our training."

Rebecca commented, "I'm delighted to be re-joining the Avolites family, particularly at a time when there is such a programme of positive change and investment. The product roadmap excites me as I can see where this is all heading and I'm looking forward to being on this re-invigorated journey."

Sales Director Ron Carrington added, "Rebecca is well known and respected in the industry, she knows the Avolites philosophy and style and has excellent connections with colleges, universities and venues; she is a brilliant addition to our expanding training team."

Rebecca will be there in person on the Avolites stand - C28 - at the PLASA London expo in September.
